
Master of the 4 amulets

Copyright

© 2013 Jerry's Book Publishing Company

Jerry yu

Dedication

To my supportive parents, my teachers and the folks at discovery tech.

The wizards

This is the good wizard. He was the king's royal sorcerer. He is a brave, truthful wizard and used his head rather than his body. He created the 4 amulets to trap the fundamental powers that caused lots of troubles. He is from the river lands and love his family. His weakness is that he tends to miscalculate threats.

The bad wizard

This is the bad wizard. He is from the forestlands. He grew up hating his good family and wants control over the 4 amulets so he can become ruler of the worlds. He invented his own form of evil magic by infusing good magic with the seeds of evil to get trapped magic. His weakness is his power is other's power and he does not have his own power (except turning good magic into trapped magic).

THE EVENT

One night, the evil wizard got a sleeping potion. He planted a seed of evil into the potion and set out to the castle. He found the good wizard and put it in the drink. As soon as the good wizard's tongue touched it he was out like a baby. The bad wizard proceeded in stealing the amulets by using a trapped controlling spell to make a guard take him to the wizard's workshop and then open the safe that held the amulets. After the bad wizard put the amulets into a jar of liquid evil and left them to succumb. At first the amulets didn't join but soon the evil magic got into the cracks took over. When the good wizard finally woke up he found his amulets gone and the bad wizard rampaging and taking all the wealth from the kingdom to the last carrot. Anybody in his way got turned to stone and broken into 1000 pieces. After he took the wealth from the kingdom he destroyed the castle by ripping every single block in the castle into dust and coating all of the kingdom in dust solidifying every atom coating everything belong to the kingdom(people included in this coat before turning them to stone too. But the good wizard survived by using his sheer mental force to create a barrier around him and his workshop . as soon as the bad wizard was of focus he grabbed his trusty white wand and went to fight the bad wizard. He knew he couldn't win because the bad wizard had the amulets but distract him so he could think of a good idea.Suddenly, the idea came to him.

Untitled

To be continued...

THE TRAP

Suddenly the good wizard got a good idea. Using all his power he trapped the bad magician in a magical shell trap. At first it was clear but as the evil wizard struggled against it it became a white eggshell. The evil wizard tried many things even planting seeds of evil into it before he remembered the amulets. He used the first (water) but it failed and he almost drowned. The second (earth) was useless because the boulders passed right through and the earthquake/volcano just buried the shell, not break it. The third (air) made the shell grow bigger like a balloon but the shell would not burst and the hurricane/tornado just caused it to stretch.

Untitled

Then, at last he used the fire amulet. The evil wizard was so surprised when a beam of fire the strength of a candle flame touched the shell tat it instantly turned black and dissolved into a dust. This is what the good wizard had been dreading. He knew unless he put all his power into the shell in a few seconds it would break and the bad wizard would be unstoppable. But if he did do it, all of his power would be lost and he would be powerless for 1 whole year. Finally, he took the plunge and gave all his power. The evil wizard 1 second before victory suddenly found the shell become jelly and stop dissolving. Unwillingly, He transferred his soul to the amulets because he knew his body was trapped forever. when The good wizard saw this he knew he had to dispel or hide the amulets. The only choice was to give his life. He gave his life to make the ruins of the kingdom into an unreachable forest. But since he kept his soul from the moment it was cast the spell began to weaken...

To Be Continued

The Reawakening

As the spell weakened over the years, Outside things caused it to morph. As the 20th century dawned, The place became the city of New York. One day, an old building was demolished. As the trucks carried the scraps away it started to rain stones but as soon as the first stone touched the ground it turned to water. At first since they didn't do any damage people didn't care but the stones just got bigger flooding the entire city! New York faced plague after plague of constant damage once a rainstorm struck it. As soon as the rain stopped the water from the storm turned to fire!! Once, a rock-slide turned tornado halfway up the slope and destroyed central square! Then at a dump 4 intricate medieval amulets were found and put into the museum. They were red, white, blue, and black. beautiful pieces of mystery. Why? Every time a plague struck the amulet closest to the color of the destructive force would glow. If the force changed (like from water to fire) the amulets closer to the new force would light up. Only 2 people connected the lines to what the truth was. The amulets were causing the plagues. One of the 2 people who knew about this was a kid called Max. He wanted to destroy the amulets but he didn't have enough money to buy the amulets from the museum and the other person was named Rob who is a millionaire he wanted to make NY his home but he was worried that the amulets would destroy the peace. So he bought the amulets for 10 million and was about to destroy them but since the bad wizard had put his soul into the amulets as soon as he touched all four he was possessed by the evil wizard. The good wizard's soul had feared that this would happen so he went to Max and joined souls with him but not possessive of him. Max went off to free Rob from the evil wizard. He tried to fight the evil wizard but he had no skill and the evil wizard had the amulets. In fact he was almost destroyed by the evil wizard. The evil wizard destroyed NY like he destroyed the kingdom couple centuries ago. Then on a rampage he teleported to Mt. Everest to unleash the amulets to the world.

Untitled

to be continued.....

The End

Max came up with a plan he teleported to Mount Everest he then pretended he learned how to fight and forced Rob to edge of a cliff. The good wizard created a portal to soul abyss and planned that Rob would back into the abyss the bad wizard soul would be roped into the abyss. And Rob wouldn't be possessed in any way. But then a pig walked on the cliff right into Max and made him lose his focus. While the evil wizard took a chance to use the amulet to trap Max and push him into the abyss. But the pig head butted him on the chess and caused him to trip and fall into the abyss. The good Wizard closed the abyss teleported Max and

Untitled

Rob home. Fixed NY and took the amulets with him up to Heaven.

The End